The basis for this book, Bob says of his original drawings which are reproduced here in this bound book: "These drawings are sketches for paintings that either never were painted, have yet to be painted (or more likely never will be painted). They are done mostly by pencil, some by charcoal & spotlight & a few by pen. Those familiar with the mediums can easily tell which is which. They were done over a two or three-year period from about 1989 to 1991 or '92 in various locations mainly to relax & refocus a restless mind. My drawing instructor in high school lectured & demonstrated continuously to 'draw only what you can see' so that if you were at a loss for words, something could be explained & even more importantly, not misunderstood. Rather than fantasize, be real & draw it only if it in front of you & if it's not there, put it there & by making the lines connect, we can vaguely get at something other than the world we know." - Bob Dylan, September 1994. This book of sometimes whimsical sketches provides...
